MANDATE:

The Department develops and delivers internationally recognized multidimensional and integrated peace support operations training courses for; the military, police/gendarmerie and civilians at regional and continental levels. It also collaborates with partners to host peace and security programmes and activities at regional and continental levels.

Based in Ghana, the Kofi Annan International Peacekeeping Training Centre (KAIPTC) provides training and research in peacekeeping and peaceoperations. Established in 1998, it formally began operations in 2002. KAIPTC commenced its first full annual training and education cycle in March 2004, and has since expanded its curriculum to over twenty different courses.

MISSION:

To develop and deliver internationally recognized and professional training courses and related programmes to equip personnel with selected skills and competencies required to meet Africa's present and future complex peace and security challenges

OPERATIONAL TASKS:

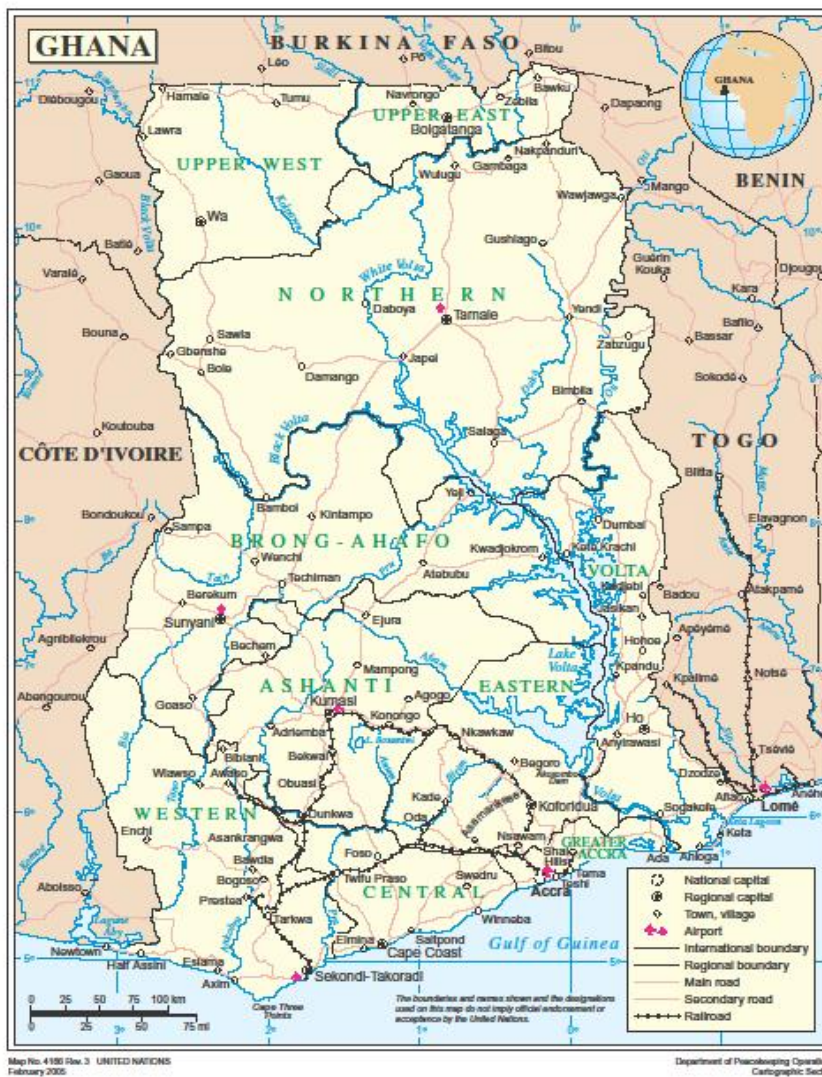

To provide mission oriented training at the operational level in Peace Operations for selected participants prior to deployment into areas of operation.

To provide the operational focus that will link the basic tactical Peace Operations training provided at Koulikoro in Mali under French sponsorship with the high level strategic training provided at the War College in Nigeria.

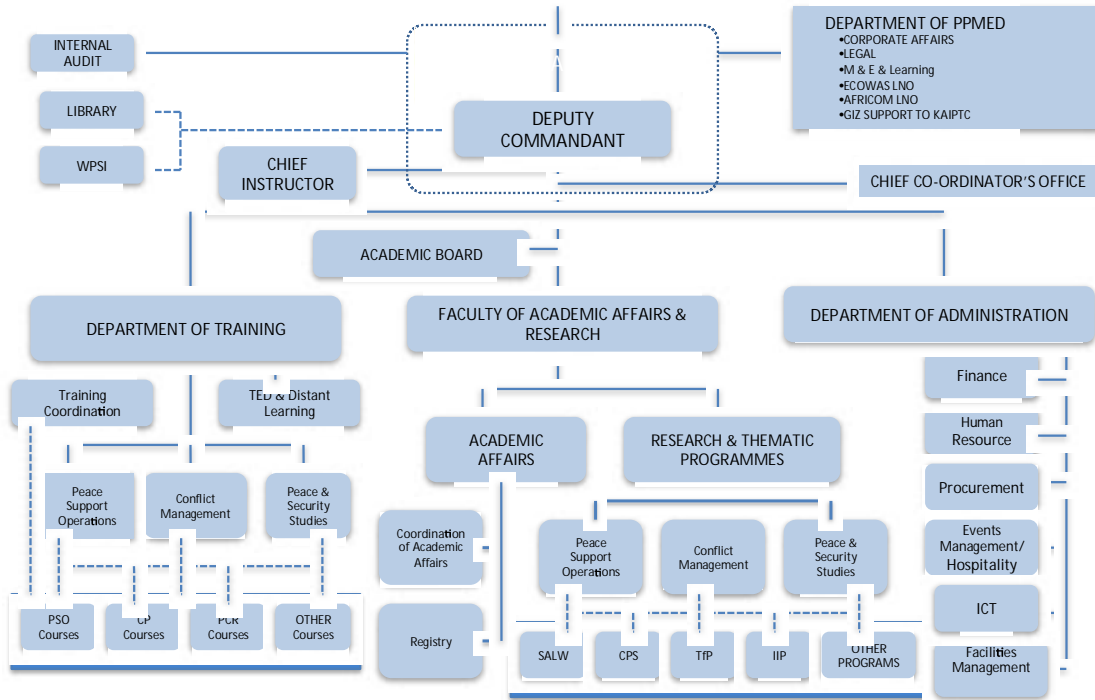

To improve the ability of participants to operate in multinational environments and to cooperate with contingents from other countries.

To keep participants abreast of the nature and complexities of contemporary inter- and intrastate conflicts. To conduct research into the various facets of peace operations.
